

CHN: 15+ years of serving/protecting our neighborhood

Quarterly meeting set: March 8 ...open input session

On Monday, March 8, CHN will host an open session for its membership. Please join us and "Zoom in" for a discussion about anything and everything: Crime, homelessness, Covid, city budgeting, etc.

Your CHN board would like to "take your pulse" and listen. Bring your questions and your concerns. We will try our best to provide background and channel the input to the appropriate person(s).

If you have a subject that you would like us research in advance, drop us an email.

Topic: CHN Quarterly Meeting

Time: Mar 8, 2021 07:00 PM Pacific Time (US and Canada)

"Al's Park" Celebration: March 20, 2:30 pm (369 Corbett)

You are cordially invited to celebrate the rebirth of Al's Park on Saturday, March 20 at 2:30. We are also showing our appreciation to Al Kovalick who turns 100 in a few days. Al was the driving force behind his park and many other local, urban delights.

Several months ago, CHN and the immediate neighbors decided to invest time and money to revitalize this remarkable, historic corner. More than $5,000 has been invested to clean up and replant.

If you would like to contribute to this effort, try this link.

Due to Covid restrictions, this will be a muted affair where all health protocols will be observed. When our modern-day plague lifts, we will organize a proper reception.

Walk by or even drive by. Enjoy one of our many, great community parks. And for a historical perspective, try this link.

Beauty & tranquility

This quirky, eccentric, oasis continues to offer peace and beauty in the heart of Corbett Heights.

Thank heavens for (small) victories

Two additional trash bins

Working with the Department of Public Works, we were able to add a second trash bin to the Triangle Park (17th and Ord) and another to the Corbett Slope. The garbage was piling up, so it was time to act.

The work continues...

Even during the times of Covid, CHN volunteers continue to clean up our community parks. Most recently half a dozen folk turned out to clean up the Triangle Park. The park is a bit of a mess as it's the focal point (dumping ground?) for the sewer repair project that has engulfed the neighborhood.

And about a month ago handful of volunteers ventured into the Corbett Slope and took out eight large bags of trash. We also surveyed the space for an extensive clean up...more details to come,
